

The Beverly Park sewer mining and re-use facility constructed by Aquatec Maxcon for Kogarah Council in Sydney, was officially opened by the Mayor on 5th June, 2008. This facility provides advanced physical-chemical treatment of sewage recovered from a nearby sewer main, enabling it to be beneficially recycled on the Beverly Park Golf Course.

The project is a major part of the programme introduced by the Kogarah Council which has enabled them to achieve Sydney Water's highest 5-star rating, resulting in substantial water savings and environmental benefits.
